A cold name. A quiet mark.

The name Deep Blue projects cold, heavy, submerged, machine-like. It is a name borrowed from the machine that beat Kasparov — precise, unfeeling, final. That association is useful. We keep it, and we contradict it.

The mark contains no blue, no water, no circuitry. It is a single quiet point of ink — one perfect circle, nothing more. Where the name says machine, the mark says living thing. Where the name says deep, the mark says stillness.

the blue stays
in the mind.

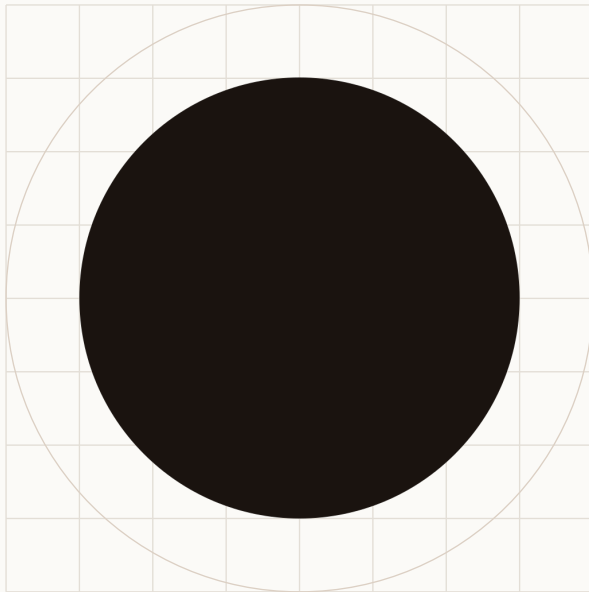

Semantic contrast

Apple is not a computer. Shell is not fuel.

The mark earns attention because it refuses to illustrate the word it sits next to.

The Ink Dot

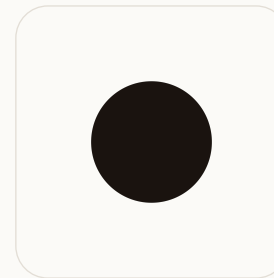

One perfect circle, $r = 24$ centred on a 64 grid, filled with warm Ink.
Nothing is drawn freehand. The restraint is the idea.

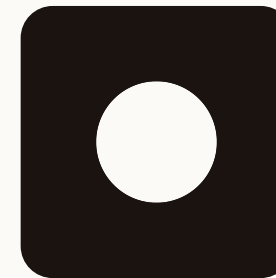

CONSTRUCTION · 8×8 GRID

SOLID INK

REVERSED

HORIZONTAL LOCKUP

CLEAR SPACE

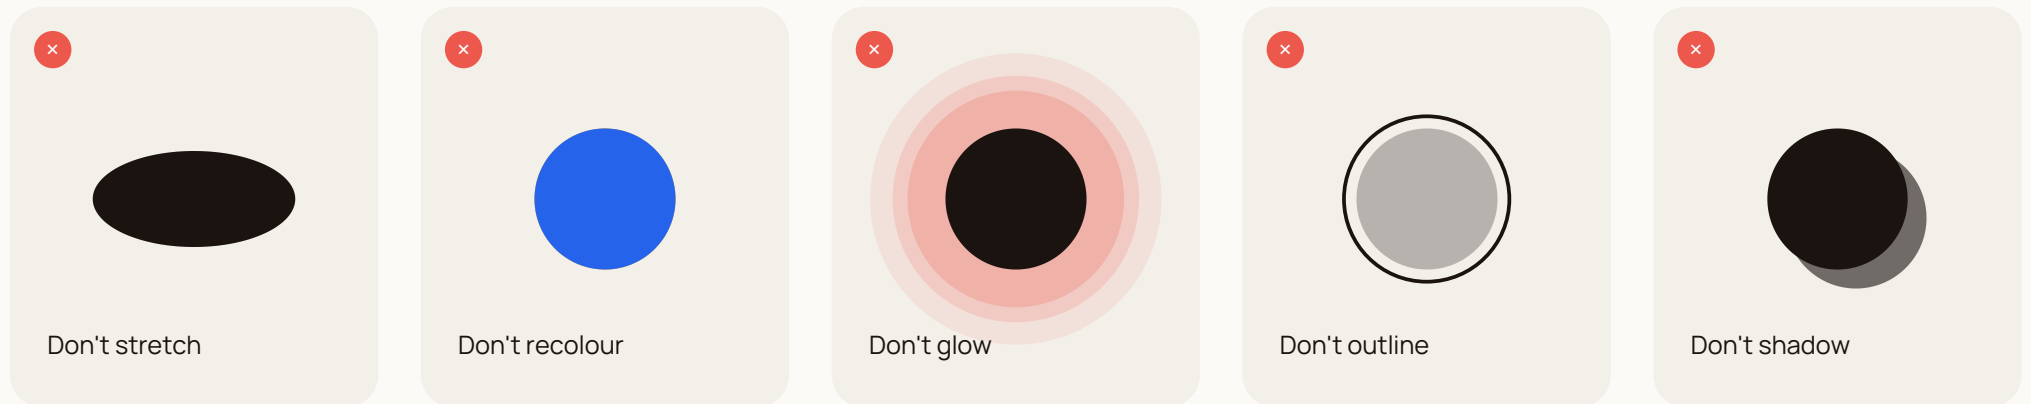

$\frac{1}{2}$ the mark height on all sides.

MINIMUM SIZE

 16 px / 6 mm

Never do this

The mark is fixed geometry. It is never redrawn, recoloured or decorated.

ALWAYS

Use the supplied SVG or PNG files — never trace or rebuild the mark.

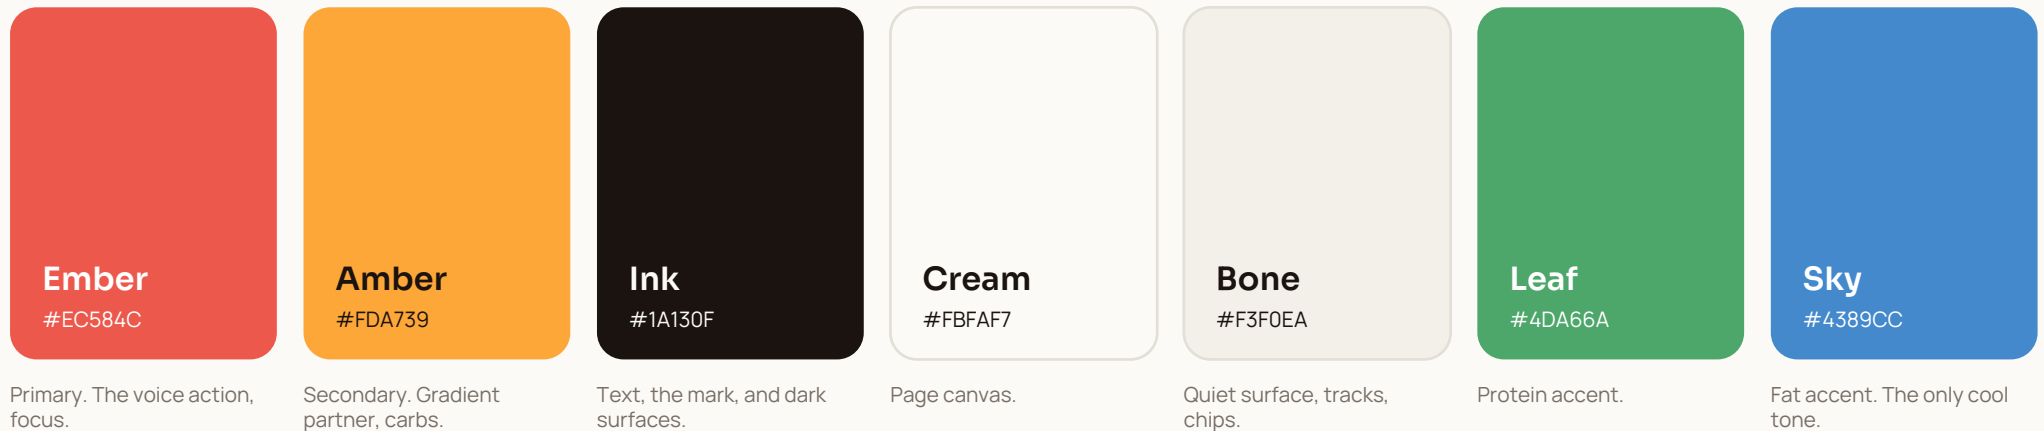

Choose one of three variants: ink on cream/bone, or cream on ink.

The dot stays a perfect circle at every size — never an ellipse.

Give the mark ½ its height of clear space, and never less than 16px.

Palette

Ember leads. Amber supports. Everything else is warm neutral, and the accents stay quiet.

Sora & Manrope

Sora sets everything structural: geometric, slightly technical, never playful. Manrope carries all reading text.

DAY SUMMARY CARD · WHITE ON CREAM, 18PT RADIUS

SURFACE RULES

- Cream is the canvas — never white.
- White cards float on cream.
- Bone fills tracks, chips and inputs.
- Radius: 18pt cards, 22pt pills.
- Shadows are soft and almost absent.
- One accent per surface. Never two.

How Deep Blue speaks

It is heard before it is read. Every line is written to be spoken out loud.

Short

One idea per sentence. If it can't be said in a breath, it's two sentences.

Warm, not chirpy

Encouraging without exclamation marks. No emoji. No coaching clichés.

Concrete

"420 calories, mostly carbs" beats "that's a moderate meal".

Never judgmental

It logs, it never scolds. Food has no morality here.

SAY THIS

"Got it — two eggs and a coffee. 240 calories."

NOT THIS

"Great job logging your breakfast! Keep it up!"
